Mr. Bell has been in the city during the past ten days visiting his brothers and sisters here.

The magnolia tree is a beautiful sight when it is in full bloom in the summer. It has grown from a "slip" brought by Mr. Bell from South Carolina in 1909. He was in the southern state on a trip when he got the plant.

It has never failed to bloom each year and attracts the attention of many visitors.

Mr. Bell, who was Pickaway-co's sheriff from 1909 to 1913, left Circleville 20 years ago and went to Columbus where he spent several years before moving to Youngstown. He is fireman in the furnace rooms of the Mahoning National Bank in Youngstown during the winter months and in the summer he spends his time on a little farm he owns outside of Youngstown.

He came with Governor Duncan McArthur of Ohio, a scion of several Pickaway-co families, and several other of the state's distinguished citizens. He spent an afternoon and night here, viewing the remarkable "antiquities" and the works of public improvement here and expressed himself highly gratified. In the evening many of the town's citizens went to the Pickaway House to pay their respects to him. About three months before his death, in 1852, it is said that while in conversation with one whom he had met on his Circleville visit, Mr. Webster referred to incidents of the visit in a manner that showed he retained a distinct recollection of them, and that the interest he derived from the visit remained undiminished.

That Circleville had a prosperous wind-mill factory located on the canal until its destruction by fire in February, 1853. The firm was operated by the Sturgeon brothers. A fire destroyed the entire plant on February 7, 1853, burning up the material which would have constructed 75 or 100 wind-mills. The loss was more than $1,500. Circleville's two fire companies, "Torrent" and "Niagara" were on hand to fight the fire.

That in the Fremont-Buchanan presidential campaign of 1856, Henry Clay of Kentucky, a fine American statesman and aspirant to the presidency himself, made a speech at the end of W. Main-st. He came to Circleville via the canal and spoke from a gallery which stood at the Colonial Carriage building before its demolition sometime ago. In 1856 the building was a hotel. Mr. Clay addressed a gathering in Chillicothe before coming here.

POLICE FRUSTRATE CITY HALL MARCH

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn., Sept. 14.—With a detachment of state troopers held ready for action, dread of further violence today still gripped south Minneapolis where strike disorders have flared frequently in the past week.

With extra police guards on the streets, last night passed peacefully after an afternoon marked by the repulse of 600 infuriated strikers and sympathizers who marched on the city hall with a demand for the resignation of Mayor Thomas E. Latimer and Police Chief Frank Forestall.

One man was slightly burned about the feet by an exploding tear-gas bomb. He was the latest in a long list of casualties, two were shot to death and half a dozen wounded by bullets, besides nearly a score of others beaten and bruised in Wednesday night's rioting, the most serious of the week.

The trouble was brewed at the Flour City Ornamental Iron works, where a skeleton staff of strike-breakers had kept the business going since the main force walked out two months ago. The plant was closed down on Mayor Latimer's orders Thursday.

The band of 600 yesterday blamed the mayor and police chief for the use of weapons in the fight, shouting "Down with Tom Latimer" before they were dispersed.

LONG'S AIDE DEFIES BILBO

Rev. Smith Charges Senator Had $25,000 in New Orleans Before Crime

BATON ROUGE, La., Sept. 14.—Louisiana, its political genius, Huey P. Long, buried a scant few hours today reverberated with sensational new charges and revelations concerning the assassination of the United States senator.

At New Orleans, the Rev. Gerald L. K. Smith, organizer of the Louisiana Share-The-Wealth societies, shouting for vengeance, charged in a radio speech that Long was murdered by "political gangsters."

In a vitriolic attack on former Governor John M. Parker, J. Y. Sanders, Jr., and publishers of the "Lying Newspapers of Louisiana," the Rev. Smith mentioned the name of United States Senator Theodore C. "the man" Bilbo, of Mississippi.

He demanded: "And you, Senator Bilbo, why did you come to New Orleans with $25,000 in cash two days before the murder of our leader?"

And when you were asked for a word of comfort for a stricken widow and three sorrowing children, you said: "Let Louisiana take care of its own affairs."

"Oh, you violator of decency," the Rev. Smith shouted. He charged that his murdered leader died of a bullet fired by "political gangsters" and laid the blame on Louisiana newspapers and anti-Long leaders who, he asserted, fired the imagination of those who plotted Long's death.

The inquest into the assassination of Senator Long, and the slaying of Dr. Carl Weiss, who was cut down instantly by Long's bodyguards who pumped 62 pistol slugs into his body after he fired one bullet into Long's abdomen, will be resumed Monday morning.

Thirteen witnesses have been subpoenaed, among them the Rev. Smith and John B. Fournet, who struck the arm of Weiss as the assassin stepped from behind a lofty marble column and pointed his 32-caliber Belgian automatic at Long's heart.

Veteran Stove Expert Gives Advice to Movers

J. R. Wilson, in Business 55 Years, Says Work Should Be Planned to Escape Ranged Up Fingers and Other Displeasures; Came Here From Hocking-co.

Stove season is just around the corner and when it appears most men lose tempers, cut and pinch fingers and in general decide moving stoves, connecting pipe and scooping the soot out of the chimney are household duties they would like to scratch off the list. If the first scoopful of soot slips and lands on the living room floor, the housewife takes part in the proceedings, and it's a fine time for some members of the family to be out visiting.

Must Study First
"Most people don't figure out a thing before they start into it," said J. R. Wilson, who has been in the stove business in this city for 55 years. "They start moving a stove before they know exactly where they want it. The average men moving a heavy article like a stove pick it up and start going, and when they find they had not taken down their fingers on consideration on the letting down part! If they would figure ahead a lot of grief and trouble would be saved."

Few people could give finer lessons on moving heavy articles than Mr. Wilson. His one-man store in the alley by the Pythian Castle is filled with heavy units. Every day Mr. Wilson repairs coal ranges and heating stoves. He moves the units with ease and asks help only when a heavy heater or range is to be delivered.

Big Oven Space
"It is interesting to look back over the development in stoves during the last half century," Mr. Wilson explained. "The old timers were practically all wood stoves with large fireboxes, stepped up tops, and plenty of oven space for bread baking."

Friday afternoon Mr. Wilson was repairing a stove he estimated was over 40 years old. The stove had a 24-inch firebox for large sticks of wood. The small ashpit on these wood burning stoves permitted the installation of a large oven.

Mr. Wilson, who is 79 years of age, came to Circleville when a youth from Hocking-co, near Gore. One of his prize possessions is the oil lamp he used while working in coal mines. He was a foreman on the building of the N. & W. railroad through Pickaway-co. When the road was completed he accepted

Litvinoff Tells League His Country Pleased With Hoare's Talk

DEBATE CONTINUES

Portugese Also Express War Opposition

MUSSOLINI DEFIANT

ROME, Sept. 14.—Premier Benito Mussolini today hurled a defiant and dramatic answer to Great Britain, France, the League of Nations, and any other power which may oppose his plan of war against Ethiopia—an answer proclaiming and ringing terms that Italy will pursue her chartered course in East Africa despite united opposition of the world.

GENEVA, Sept. 14.—Soviet Russia today joined the ranks of nations lined up against Italian invasion of Ethiopia as Soviet Foreign Commissar Maxim Litvinoff told the League of Nations assembly his country welcomed the speech of British Foreign Secretary Sir Samuel Hoare, who urged collective resistance against acts of aggression.

Litvinoff said he was most satisfied with Hoare's speech, and that he welcomed it as a "good omen" for the league.

Portugese, Also

Portugese Foreign Minister Rodriguez Monteiro affirmed his country's fidelity to the league covenant and said it would share the responsibilities of the signatories. He added, however, that "spoilation procedure" seemed worse to him than war. This was taken as a veiled reference to alleged plans of the big powers.

The assembly's debate on the Ethiopian crisis continued despite the absence of the two chief negotiators, Sir Samuel Hoare and Premier Pierre Laval of France, whose speech yesterday lined France along with Britain in a front against Italian war plans.

Litvinoff remarked that if an Italo-Ethiopian conflict came before the league council or assembly, the Soviet delegation would do its part "impartially and objectively despite threats or attacks in the press."

Defending Covenant
Asserting that it was merely a question of defending the league covenant as an instrument of peace, the Soviet spokesman added:

"We may need it again and on more serious occasions."

He declared that if the covenant was maintained as an instrument of peace, the present meeting of the assembly would be a landmark in the history of the league, to which he pledged the loyal adherence of the Soviet union.

ADDES ABABA, Sept. 14.—War drums were tightened up for beating notice of formal Ethiopian mobilization today as news of Premier Mussolini's latest call of another million to arms led the country's leaders to believe there was not much use in waiting longer.

Employees of the local highway department said the contract involved in the suit was on Road 104 to be resurfaced from the Ross-co line, north 8.7 miles.

Portuguese, Also

Portuguese Foreign Minister, Rodriguez Monteiro affirmed his country's fidelity to the league covenant and said it would share the responsibilities of the signatories. He added, however, that "spoliation procedure" seemed worse to him than war. This was taken as a veiled reference to alleged plans of the big powers.

The assembly's debate on the Ethiopian crisis continued despite the absence of the two chief negotiators, Sir Samuel Hoare and Premier Pierre Laval of France, whose speech yesterday lined France along with Britain in a front against Italian war plans.

Litvinoff remarked that if an Italo-Ethiopian conflict came before the league council or assembly, the Soviet delegation would do its part "impartially and objectively despite threats or attacks in the press."

Defending Covenant

Asserting that it was merely a question of defending the league covenant as an instrument of peace, the Soviet spokesman added:

"We may need it again and on more serious occasions."

He declared that if the covenant was maintained as an instrument of peace, the present meeting of the assembly would be a landmark in the history of the league, to which he pledged the loyal adherence of the Soviet union.

ADDIS ABABA, Sept. 14—War drums were tightened up for beating notice of formal Ethiopian mobilization today as news of Premier Mussolini's latest call of another million to arms led the country's leaders to believe there was not much use in waiting longer.

SUIT ATTACKS ROAD CONTRACT

COLUMBUS, Sept. 14—A suit to prevent State Director of Highways John Jaster, Jr., from awarding a contract in connection with the construction of a Pickaway-co road was filed in Franklin-co courts here today by E. M. Tuttle, a Columbus attorney.

Tuttle set forth in his petition that a contract for materials in connection with the construction of the road was awarded by the state highway department to T. D. Van Camp of Columbus on or about Sept. 9, 1935 on a bid of $78,990.

Employees of the local highway department said the contract involved in the suit was on Route 104 to be resurfaced from the Ross-co line, north 8.7 miles.

The church is not a hospital, though it ministers to spiritually sick and morally anemic. The church is not a gymnasium primarily to develop ethical muscles. The church is not a cold storage plant to keep a few saints from spoiling. The church is not a club to give a little religious polish to complacent members.

The church is an inspiration to workers. The church exists to help people live. It must not live for itself but must lose itself in service. ### Meeting Disaster

The story is told that when William Carey had succeeded in establishing his pioneer missionary work in India, his supporters in England sent him an assistant, a Mr. Ward, who was a printer by trade. Soon they were turning out printed portions of the Bible for distribution among the natives. Carey spent many years learning the languages and wrote grammars and dictionaries for the use of his successors.

One day while Carey was away from his station, a disastrous fire broke out and completely destroyed the building, the presses, many printed Bibles and worst of all the manuscripts, grammars and dictionaries on which Carey had spent so much time.

When Mr. Carey returned, his servant told him of the loss. Without a word of despair or anger he

Timothy

ILLUSTRATED SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

Scriptures—II Timothy, chapter 1.

By the Rev. Alvin E. Bell And Alfred J. Buescher

On his second missionary journey Paul came to Lystra and preached. The enemies of the gospel became bitter against him and dragged him out of the city and stoned him, leaving him for dead. Lystra was Timothy's home and he may have seen all this.

Timothy's father was a Greek and never may have become a Christian. But his mother, Eunice, and his grandmother, Lois, were Christians. They taught him the scriptures in his childhood and reared him to live a godly life.

Timothy became pastor of the church at Ephesus and to guide and encourage him in his work Paul wrote two epistles to him which we call "pastoral epistles." They are full of advice to young ministers.

Paul wrote at least thirteen epistles, which we have in the New Testament. The last of these we call Second Timothy. It was written from prison in Rome shortly before Paul suffered martyrdom at the hands of Nero. (GOLDEN TEXT—II Tim. 2:15)

One of the most unique services ever held in St. Paul's cathedral occurred recently when 700 deaf and dumb persons from fourteen nations prayed and sang without uttering a word. They were athletes attending the fourth international games for the deaf and mute. The service was conducted in the international sign language. One after the other, missionaries and chaplains, some of them also deaf mounted the lofty pulpit and acted out the prayers hymns and songs with eloquent gestures. The congregation joined in prayers and hymns.

ILLUSTRATED SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

Scriptures—II Timothy, chapter 1.

By the Rev. Alvin E. Bell
And Alfred J. Buescher

On his second missionary journey Paul came to Lystra and preached. The enemies of the gospel became bitter against him and dragged him out of the city and stoned him, leaving him for dead. Lystra was Timothy's home and he may have seen all this.

Timothy's father was a Greek and never a Christian. But his mother, Eunice, and his grandmother, Lois, were Christians. They taught him the scriptures in his childhood and reared him to live a godly life.

Timothy became pastor of the church at Ephesus and to guide and encourage him in his work Paul wrote two epistles to him which we call "pastoral epistles". They are full of advice to young ministers.

Paul wrote at least thirteen epistles, which we have in the New Testament. The last of these we call Second Timothy. It was written from prison in Rome shortly before Paul suffered martyrdom at the hands of Nero. (GOLDEN TEXT—II Tim. 2:15)

Household Arts

Fall is upon you, and if you're "pick up" work, this colorful quilt's a suggestion. Called "Southern Pine," it derives its inspiration from Colonial times, yet is as effective in today's bedroom as it was in yesterday's! You'll get the nicest contrast by using two shades of one color—such as harmonizing shades of rose, orchid, blue or orange—for the center patches with green on a white background.

In pattern 5359 you will find the Block Chart, an illustration for cutting, sewing and finishing, together with yardage chart, diagram of quilt to help arrange the blocks for single and double bed size, and a diagram of block which serves as a guide for placing the patches and suggests contrasting materials.

To obtain this pattern send 10 cents in stamps or coin (coin preferred) to The Herald, 124 W. Main-st, Circleville, Ohio.

FAINTING BURGLAR

TOLEDO, O.—When five uniformed policemen and a detective rushed into a laundry at night in response to a report that the place was being robbed, the sight proved too much for the 27-year-old burglar suspect. He fainted. Revived, he was taken to the police station, where he told police he "needed a shirt."

CONNIVING EURGPE

TOM-TOMS beat in the jungles of Ethiopia as the warriors of the Lion of Judah stream from swampland and burning deserts to answer the call against invasion.

Up North the pow-pows resound throughout diplomatic hall and palace. The worried European nations are hustling around to obtain allies in the event of war. It all has a familiar ring and it spells 1914.

The latest piece of "diplomatic" strategy is the overture of Benito Mussolini, surnamed Caesar, to Adolf Hitler, one-time Bavarian house-painter and now Reichsfuehrer. It smacks of a threat to the French Premier Laval's cherished anti-German front.

Mussolini could not align himself with a better ally. Both adhere to the policy that the people have no rights and that it is entirely permissible to go around putting little countries in big fascist pockets.

It is an astounding business, this culture of war that spawns on the masses and brings forth a gruesome crop of overstuffed grave-yards. In the World War Italy was the avowed foe of Germany, and Italy was the ally of France and Great Britain. Now Italy stands in a doubtful light. She is determined to go into Ethiopia and start a grim business. Nothing short of a united world stand against her vicious program will deter the Italian legions from crossing the borderline into the Lion of Judah's kingdom. And where is this much vaunted world unity that pledged itself so solemnly to outlaw war in 1918?

Because, today, Italy is opposed to British interference, and France is running around in circles trying to gather broken ends together to safeguard her borderlines from her natural enemy, Germany.

INSPIRING MEMORIAL

THOUGH it probably will fail to make a dent in hard-boiled diplomacy, the quest for fifty million signatures on a world mandate for peace as a memorial, to the late Jane Addams is an inspiring and worthy manifestation of vigorous crusading in behalf of pacific ideals.

If Miss Addams could have chosen her own memorial, it doubtless would have been a progressive movement of this very type.

Wars, of course, are neither agitated nor started by the great masses of mankind. They issue from foreign offices where old men gather and nurse their petty jealousies and nationalistic grievances.

The virtue of the Jane Addams memorial will lie in its indication of an abiding conscience which even now is gaining undeniable momentum. And eventually, one may safely assume, the force of enlightened public opinion will prevail over the deadly designs of the greedy dictators who now have humanity's fate in the palms of their hands.

Huey Long is about to publish a book entitled, "My First Days in the White House." What! Did he go in for reincarnation, too?

Method of becoming a professional humorist: First get you a wife who doesn't care what you say about her.

If the wife doesn't listen, it isn't discourteous indifference. She knows what you are going to say, anyway.

Maybe brain work is more exhausting than physical labor because it has to exhaust.

SLAM ATTEMPTS INVOLVE RISKS

ALMOST WITHOUT exception
bidding slams, either small or grand, involve risks. As long as risks are in proportion to possible gains nobody should find fault. It is a part of the game. When one partner holds a powerful suit and the other partner has all Aces and unusual support for the long suit, the question arises whether 6-No Trump or 7-odd at the suit is the better call. It is easy to be a myope under such circumstances. Honors held are not the vital score sought. The point to consider is the difference in score between a small slam and a grand slam, when it is axiomatic that a long suit almost invariably will win
one more trick than can be made with a powerful no trump hand. On the other hand the partner having several tenaces ordinarily should become the declarer, so that the lead may come up to those tenaces, rather than go through them. Such matters have to be carefully weighed when deciding between long suit and no trumps.

The other evening I made an opening bid of 1-No Trump, sitting South. My partner, J. W. Weston, is noted for ability to squeeze the last possible trick from 100 cards, whether playing offensively or defensively. He overcalled with the strong bid of 3-Hearts. East bid 3-Spades. We alone were vulnerable. Doubtless my spades were good for 2 tricks. With three aces Aces and partner's bid showing established hearts worth at least 6 tricks, I felt perfectly safe in going 3-No Trumps. My partner could be depended upon to bid further, provided he held added tricks in side suits. The hands are shown below.

♠ K Q J 10 7 5
♥ K J 6
♦ K 3
♣ A 3 4 3
N. 6 5 2
W. 5 4 3
S. 7 5 4

North bid 4-Hearts, showing slam probabilities at hearts. His first bid told the whole story about his hearts. Not wanting the opening lead of spades to go through my hand at a higher call than 6-odd, I bid 6-No Trumps. An opening lead of spades insured a small slam: 2 spade tricks, 6 hearts, 2 diamonds and 2 clubs,
without a finesse.

Nobody could blame West for leading his own best suit—clubs—after my display of spade strength. My 9 was the opening lead. There were in sight 1 spade, 6 heart, 2 diamond and 3 club tricks, or 12 certain tricks. In case the diamond finesse of dummy's J held there was a grand slam. I took the finesse and lost, but spread my cards for balance. As the cards lay a grand slam could have been made at hearts but the call would have been risky.

THE DEVIL'S MANSION

CHAPTER 47

UNABLE TO get any sort of a description of the man who had taken Janet away, Blair returned to Nita. But she refused to talk about Maurice. When he pressed her with questions regarding the man's appearance, she pretended she did not understand. He continued, until at last, half angrily, she cried:

"Miss Morelle made me promise
I'd never tell anyone . . . that. You will know him when you see him."
"But Nita," Blair argued, "how am I going to find him if I don't know what he looks like? Janet, doubtless, will be well hidden and I will have to trace her through him."

"Maurice will be concealed even more carefully than Janet. Lord, very few people have ever seen him.
I am one of the few. Miss Morelle said that even as a young boy, he was sensitive about his appearance and always stayed hidden from people. It is likely that if he really loves Janet, she will never see him . . . never. He will come to her only in the dark . . . for he has the eyes of a cat . . . he sees more clearly in the darkness than in the light."

"He showed himself to you, and to his mother . . . and he hated me, because he was forced to let me look upon him. No,
you can't trace Janet through him."

"I can't understand how Maurice could take Janet away as suddenly as he did . . . I was with her a few hours before . . . and I never would have left her. If I had suspected there was a man who had some sort of hold on her. But she begged me to go . . . told me it was dangerous for me to stay . . . that she was safe . . ."
"Maurice forced her to say that,
I know. Safe for her but not for you."

The morning of the fifth day, a letter in Blair's box at the hotel gave him renewed hope of finding the lost girl.

Seizing it eagerly, he tore open the envelope and read the contents.
"B. R. Regarding the diamond you lost. My small son found one yesterday on the docks at Vancouver. You may have some by calling at my office in the Rhodes building, and making the proper identification.
Yours truly, Samuel Vrooman."

Blair did not wait for breakfast;
did not wait to shave, but jumped into his car and started for Vancouver. By fast driving, he could make the distance in less time than by bus or train. At noon when he he stopped for gas, he had sandwiches put up for his lunch and drove steadily on. It was eight o'clock when he reached Vancouver, dusty and tired from fighting his way over the rough roads.

After a hasty dinner, he found Samuel Vrooman's home address but no one at home. Disappointed, he returned to the Vancouver hotel for a much needed rest.

He was waiting at the door of Vrooman's office when the first clerk put in his appearance. Vrooman, from the sign on his door, was a commission merchant.

Then, more waiting. Vrooman, the clerk said, did not usually come down until about nine-thirty.
Blair wondered how the single diamond could have been dropped so far from Winston and Bolesvain where he and McClure had found the four others. Did it mean that Janet and Maurice were in Vancouver?
That they were planning to sail?

Strange that Janet would be about the docks unless she was taking a boat somewhere. Perhaps their boat had sailed. Perhaps they were now far out at sea! A feeling of apprehension swept over him at this thought.

He glanced at the letter again. It had been written two days ago. It might be that Vrooman had had the diamond for several days before he noticed the advertisement in the paper. Too, it might not be the mate of the diamonds he had in his possession! And this trip would again prove but a waste of time.

All the time, Maurice and Janet were getting farther and farther away . . .

The arrival of Vrooman, a short,
pompous little man, interrupted Blair's gloomy thoughts and he followed the commission merchant into his office.

"I am Blair Rodman . . . the B. R.
of the advertisement," he introduced himself.

Vrooman shrugged his shoulders
and raised his eyebrows.
"Oh, yes," he said, smoothly. "I had the diamond my boy Sam found appraised yesterday by a jeweler.
He says it is extremely valuable . . .
the stone is two carats, and worth about $10,000."

Blair tried not to let the amazement he felt show in his face. Ten thousand dollars! And Nita had said there were 24 diamonds in the necklace. Maurice had given Janet a princely gift, and Janet was throwing the stones away!

"Have you any means of identifiing the stones to me? You can see, with such a valuable gem, I could not think of letting it go out of my possession unless I knew you to be the rightful owner."

"I'll be frank with you, Mr. Vrooman.
The stones do not belong to me. But I wish to know the one you have . . . there are 19 yet for me to find, if this one you have matches the others. There were 24 in the original necklace."

"You are an agent, then . . . for some recovery company?"

"No, I'm doing this on my own.
The necklace was a gift, I think, although I'm not sure, to a young lady
I know, and think very much of."

"She wishes them back, then?"

"No . . . I don't know. I can't tell you why I want them back. I just wish to see your stone."

Vrooman walked to a safe in the corner of his office. Opening it after several minutes, he brought out a small box and placed it in front of Blair on the table. He opened it with a flourish.

Blair reached for it eagerly, exclaiming softly to himself. The other man, however, put his hand over it,
looking distrustfully at his visitor.

Blair reached into his pocket and drew out an envelope. One by one he took the four diamonds from their bed of cotton in which he had placed them to prevent scratching. The five diamonds were identical!

Vrooman examined each of Blair's four diamonds carefully.

"Yes," he said at last, a touch of regret in his voice, "they are the same. But you spoke about a reward."

"I shall give you a thousand dollars for the stone . . . but first, I must be taken exactly to the place
it was found on the docks . . . it is more important to me to know where it was found than to get the stone back."

"I shall have to get my son,"
Vrooman, reached for the phone.
Blair waited impatiently for the boy to arrive. When he came, he proved to be about 10 years old, a bright little lad, the image of what his father must have been at his age.

Sam, Junior, chatted importantly all the way to the wharves. Then, when they arrived, pointed out the exact spot where he had found the stone. At first he had thought it was just a piece of glass, curiously cut, he said. The dock was long, one of the largest in Vancouver. Sam had found the stone clinging between two planks, wedged in. Why someone else had not seen it first he did not know, as it was easy to see, glinting in the sunlight.

All the boy knew about it was that he had found it last Friday afternoon, and when his mother was cleaning
his pockets that night she had found it, and shown it to his father.

Had Sam seen a girl with light hair, getting on a steamer? A girl with violet eyes, rather slight, with a pale face and red lips?

He hadn't noticed. There were a lot of people down at the docks that day. A big boat was leaving for Japan. His mother didn't want him to go down . . . but he loved the water, and in his vacation time came often.

Blair calculated quickly. Friday afternoon Sam had found the diamond. Janet had left the Bolesvain house early Thursday morning. Here it was Thursday again.

The trail was cold . . . too cold by now, he feared.

Daily Washington Merry-Go-Round

By DREW PEARSON and ROBERT S. ALLEN

Arthur Mullen Asks $160,000 For Obtaining Nebraska PWA Money

WASHINGTON — Arthur Mullen, ex-Democratic National Committeeman from Nebraska, is asking an attorney fee of $160,000
from two power districts in Nebraska. He secured $18,400,000 of PWA money for power projects at Columbus and Gothenburg, Neb., and now claims reward. . . . White House Secretary Louis Howe is devoting part of his convalescent strength to growing a moustache.
It is a compromise between the Hitler tooth-brush and the once popular handle-bar variety. . . .
The shooting of Huey Long illustrates the reason most public officials refuse to have bodyguards.
It is recognized, even by Secret Service men who guard the President, that the best precautions are futile if the assailant is a fantastic ready to act the martyr. . . .
Every public official receives threatening letters. Some turn them over to the Post Office Department, most into the waste basket. . . . Senators Wagner and Copeland of New York are both assigned New York police, but neither makes use of this detail.
Ex-Senator Tom Heflin of Alabama had a widely publicized assassination complex. Once he solemnly announced that Al Smith had sent him a violin filled with deadly germs trained to jump out when the Senator drew a bow across the strings.

Unconstitutional

Some of the bright young New Deal lawyers are privately of the opinion that certain of the provisions of the social security act are unconstitutional and that the Supreme Court will hold them so.
Big Jim Farley, a telephone addict, called his office in the Capital every day while in Honolulu during his recent visit there.
The glee of meat packers and other food manufacturers over the failure of the $150,000 grant to Federal Trade Commission for a nation-wide probe of food prices is premature. The Administration, counting heavily on this investigation to supply it with campaign ammunition to support AAA processing taxes, is borrowing the needed funds from the Trade Commissions regular appropriation. . . .
A favorite recreation of General
Hugh Johnson is to listen to pho-nographic reproductions of his speeches.

Auto Record

Total production up to September 1 already assures the auto industry a banner year. Up to that date, 2,900,000 cars had rolled off
the finishing floors, 800,000 more than the total output in 1934. Motor makers are estimating the year's total at 3,500,000. . . . CCC Director Robert Echnier is the marathon letter dictator of the Capital. At one sitting and using three stenographers, he will dictate more than a hundred letters without pause. . . . Captain Thomas Hay Nixon, (who last year di-vored a former Follies beauty and married for the third time, is one of the inventors of the army's famous new tank, the T-2. Despite its heavy battery of guns it can attain a speed of 70 miles an hour traveling solely on treads. . . .

Father Coughlin has become a foe of the 30-hour bill, strongly advocated by the A. F. of L. In a Detroit Labor Day speech, the radio priest warned workers: "Do not dissipate your energies fighting for a 30-hour week. Your objective should be an annual wage.
And the way to get that is sharing profits and not wealth."

Political Reprisal

The Senate Lobby Committee is investigating the alleged secret campaigns of utility interests to prevent the re-election of House members who fought for the Holding Company Act. They have reports that appliance salesmen of the Texas Power & Light Co., an Electric Bond and Share subsidiary, have been out to get Sam
Rayburn, chairman of the Interstate Commerce committee and co-sponsor of the measure. . . .
Former Vice President Charles Davies is about to enter the list of author-statemens. Next month will appear his book, "Notes as Vice President." . . . The modernization of the kitchen is not the only White House refurbishing being done for the winter season.
The hangings and fixtures
are being cleaned and polished walls repainted and floors sandpa-pered and waxed. . . . "Jeffy" O'- Connor, bachelor Comptroller of the Currency, prides himself on three attributes; he does not drink, nor use tobacco in any form, and considers himself an accomplished dancer.

TIGER YOUTHS GET PRACTICE WITH GRADS

Eby Leads Scrimmaging Squad
as Landrum's Boys Look Pretty Good

Coach Jack Landrum got a pretty good line on what his boys can do under fire Friday afternoon when his "first string" squad took a bunch of second string linemen and some grads into camp, 13-12, in a 60-minute practice session.

Although the game was only for practice there was a large crowd of spectators on hand.

The lineup Landrum used in starting included Gitt and Fickard ends, Huff and Harden tackles, Garner and Good guards, McGinnis center, Henry quarterback, Friley and Ruder halfbacks, and Adkins fullback.

Nearly First String

With the exception of probably two or three positions this lineup will start against Groveport next week. Jackson, Henderson or Melson may be at the end occupied by Gitt, Weaver will be contesting for Harden's tackle, and several other backs including John Griffith, who is still sidelined with a bad shoulder, will be after the fullback post.

On the other side of the line were Hunsicker and Jackson ends, Lyle and Conrad tackles, Plum and Weldon guards, Nelson center, Grant quarterback, Coleman and Speakman halfbacks, and Eby fullback.

Landrum can get his boys into hard, whole blocking, tackling and running with the ball he has a squad which will make a good showing through the entire season. Nearly every boy out there is trying hard for a position.

Several Central Buckeye league teams were in action Friday afternoon and evening with the outstanding performance being made by Westerville in holding Columbus Central to a 6-6 tie and outplaying the Pirates a greater part of the time.

Marysville bit off a big chunk taking on Mt. Vernon in the opening fray and losing 0 to 20.

Bexley had a difficult time winning from Columbus St. Mary's 7 to 0.

EASTERN football is coming into its own again.

Until the last few years, though there annually were several outstanding teams the group called the "east" had bogged down in comparison to the middle-west, the far west and the south.

The coming of Andy Kerr to Colgate, Lou Little of Columbia, Fritz Crisler to Princeton, E. J. die Anderson to Holy Cross, Jim Crowley to Fordham, Pop Warner to Temple, Chuck McGinnis to Manhattan, Earl Blaik to Dartmouth and Dick Harlow to Harvard has changed conditions. These appointments, augmented the standbys in Jack Sutherland at Pitt and Gil Dobbie at Cornell, have given football in the east a new lease on life.

This imposing group has been largely responsible for changing the game from a robot, orthodox style to a thrilling, hair-raising spectacle. The fans immediately responded. This was the type of football that they wanted.

Andy Kerr has given impetus to the latest progressive step in football technique, the lateral pass, by exploiting it constantly. He has done much for its popularity, so look for a great use of it by many eastern teams this fall.

It will be interesting to get the reaction as time goes on for, like anything else, lateral pass development can become one-sided. In favoring the lateral pass, the teams with material below par are given the opportunity to play the favorites on a more equal basis. The tendency will be for the weaker teams to throw caution to the winds with wide use of the lateral pass. On the other hand, the stronger outfits will necessarily have to be more careful. Their own indiscriminate use of the lateral would mean taking dangerous chances.

CHICAGO TEAM NEARS CARDS IN HOT CHASE

Giants Whip St. Louis in Extra Inning of Swat-
fest; Margin Four Points

NEW YORK, Sept. 14 — A nickel world series might bring joy to the hearts of New York baseball fans, but fifty per cent of their hopes have already gone down the well known greased chute to oblivion. Joe McCarthy's Yankees are all but mathematically out of the fight today after dropping their second straight to the high-flying Detroit Tigers to ship time and a half games on the wrong side of the ledger.

The Giants, on the other hand, while not claiming the National league bunting, are still in the thick of a three-way scramble with the St. Louis Cardinals and the Chicago Cubs, which may or may not work to their advantage depending on the outcome of the two remaining games with the Red Birds, and the four coming acts with the Bruins in the windy city.

Fight To Victory
Fighting to stay up with the leaders, the Giants, yesterday, clawed their way to a 13 to 10 win over the Cardinals in ten heats. Dizzy Dean, who humbled them Thursday stepped into the breach in the tenth, just in time to absorb a three run spree, for his ninth loss. The win brought the New Yorkers to within three and a half games of the Cards and Cubs, who are in a virtual tie for the lead, although four points separate them.

While the Giants-Cards game held the spotlight, the Chicago Cubs sauntered on to their tenth straight win, by humbling the Brooklyn Dodgers, 4 to 1.

The last spark of life in the New York Yankees seems to have been extinguished, for the Tigers, led by Hank Greenberg, who hit his 35th homer, a double, and a single accounting for four runs, hung a 13 to 5 defeat on the McCarthy men.

The loss plunged them practically out of the picture. Lou Gehrig's 29th and 30th homers were the only bright spots for the Yankees as Lefty Gomez absorbed his 14th licking.

TOLEDO, Sept. 14 — With but four games remaining on their schedule, the Columbus Red Birds today were still tied with Kansas City for third-place in the American Association after downing the Toledo Mud Hens 8 to 2 yesterday.

Although he granted nine hits, Jim Winford was never in trouble and breezed in behind the 18 hit barrage his mates laid down.

Minneapolis, practical champions, saw their lead over the second place Indianapolis Indians cut to 5½ games as Kansas City took a twinbill, 10 to 2, and 10 to 9.

Indianapolis maintained their 3½ game lead over Columbus and Kansas City by winning a double-header from Louisville, 11 to 6 and 4 to 1.

St. Paul and Milwaukee, battling for fifth place, drew closer in the standings as the Apostles took two from the Brewers 11 to 6 and 5 to 4.

BUCKEYES NEARING SCRIMMAGE STAGE

COLUMBUS, Sept. 14 — With an extensive aerial drill and a possible scrimmage on tap, the Ohio State varsity squad today prepared for its hardest practice of the year.

Still using many varied backfield combinations and indicating he will not attempt to select his starting backs until after several intense scrimmages, Coach Francis Schmidt again put the Scarlet Source through their two daily drills yesterday with the pass of force again being stressed.

Seemingly intent on fulfilling his promise at the conclusion of the 1934 campaign that "we will really open-up next year," Schmidt has stuck to the passing phase of the game through every drill held this week and the famed Buckeye forward-but rail of last year may seem puny to the air attack Schmidt undoubtedly will show the Western Conference this season.

exceptional football players of the day. Not only does he do everything well, but he has a love of competition so essential to a champion. He does more than his share of the work and as a consequence, his teammates have implicit confidence in his leadership. Smukler will be ably aided by a veteran team, so there is a good chance that Pop Warner's present outfit will better the record of last year and that will be quite a feat.

The news that Marty McDonough, Colgate's backfield star, had broken his leg in summer baseball was certainly a blow to Andy Kerr. Despite this casualty, the Red Raiders will romp along the winning column, for when you find the combination of excellent coaching, fine material and splendid spirit, you have what it takes.

These qualifications are also to be found at Princeton and Columbia. Fritz Crisler has in Marks, a quarterback, and Captain Pepper Constable, Garry Le Van, Homer Spoffard and Sandback other fine backs, and that assures that the turf will be flying in Tiger-town.

It is hard to believe but the usually conservative Lou Little has a smile on his face these days. If the leg injury to his captain, Al Barabas, of Rose Bowl fame, comes around, Columbia will be formidable.

We can forever expect surprises in football. If I were to select the dark horses among the eastern teams, I would reserve a spot for Holy Cross, Penn, Boston university, Manhattan, Villanova, Franklin-Marshall and Penn State. Fordham would ordinarily be included in either of the above lists, but I am afraid the schedule is too exacting for the available material.

The consensus of 15 American association writers is wrong—A clipping from a Columbus newspaper before the opening game shows that the 15 writers picked Columbus to win the AA title with the Millers second and Milwaukee third — The Minneapolis crew won, Columbus is third . . .

Miller Writers Right

Writers who picked the Millers to win were George Barton, Minneapolis; George Christmas, St. Paul; Irvin Rudick, Minneapolis; and Charles Johnson, Minneapolis. —After all selections are a "home" affair since a local sports writer just about has to pick his own team . . .

Not GeeBee's Boys

Some smatterings: GeeBee Stoker, former Ashvillian, reports that the team that played New Holland a week ago was not his ball club but a bunch of Ashville boys; he is right—Now he announces that a three-game series is being planned between his club and Mike Helfrich's villagers. —Ashville plays Art Howey's colored stars at Ashville Sunday; this is GeeBee's team . . .

Pettibone Leader

Art Walker of Fox PostOffice batted 258, Whacker Davis of Commercial Point combed the leather for .377 and Chad Pettibone of Ashville led the team with .428 for the Chillicothe Red Cross shoes during the past summer . . .

To Play, Night Ball

A night baseball game is being played in Ashville Community park Monday evening between the Ashville Independents and the Groveport clubs — The game starts at 8:45 o'clock . . .

Bowlers Defeated

Circleville bowlers for some reason report the matches they win but forget about those they lose — Thursday evening a Chillicothe aggregation came here to whip Boggs, Lemon, Lynch, Watts and Campbell by a 2651 to 2593 score — The match was on the CAC alleys . . .

CHICAGO TEAM NEARS CARDS IN HOT CHASE

Giants Whip St. Louis in Extra Inning of Swat-
fest; Margin Four Points

NEW YORK, Sept. 14.—A nickle world series might bring joy to the hearts of New York baseball fans, but fifty per cent of their hopes have already gone down the well known greased chute to oblivion. Joe McCarthy's Yankees are all but mathematically out of the fight today after dropping their second straight to the highlyfiging Detroit Tigers to slip nine and a half games on the wrong side of the ledger.

The Giants, on the other hand, while not claiming the National league bunting, are still in the thick of a three way scramble with the St. Louis Cardinals and the Chicago Cubs, which may or may not work to their advantage, depending on the outcome of the two remaining games with the Red Birds, and the four coming setos with the Bruins in the windy city.

Fight To Victory

Fighting to stay up with the leaders, the Giants, yesterday, clawed their way to a 13 to 10 win over the Cardinals in ten heats. Dizzy Dean, who humbled them Thursday stepped into the breach in the tenth, just in time to absorb a three run spree, for his ninth loss. The win brought the New Yorkers to within three and a half games of the Cards and Cubs, who are in a virtual tie for the lead, although four points separate them.

While the Giants-Cards game held the spotlight, the Chicago Cubs sauntered on to their tenth straight win, by humbling the Brooklyn Dodgers, 4 to 1.

The last spark of life in the New York Yankees seems to have been extinguished, for the Tigers, led by Hank Greenberg, who hit his 35th homer, a double and a single accounting for four runs, hung a 13 to 5 defeat on the McCarthy men. The loss plunged them practically out of the picture. Lou Gehrigs 29th and 30th homers were the only bright spots for the Yankees as Lefty Gomez absorbed his 14th licking.

BIRDS HAVE ONLY FOUR GAMES LEFT

TOLEDO, Sept. 14.—With but four games remaining on their schedule, the Columbus Red Birds today were still tied with Kansas City for third-place in the American Association after downing the Toledo Mud Hens 8 to 2 yesterday.

Although he granted nine hits, Jim Winford was never in trouble and breezed in behind the 15 hit barrage his mates laid down.

Minneapolis, practical champions, saw their lead over the second place Indianapolis Indians cut to 5½ games as Kansas City took a twinbill, 10 to 2, and 10 to 9.

Indianapolis maintained their 3½ game lead over Columbus and Kansas City by winning a double-header from Louisville, 11 to 1 and 4 to 1.

St. Paul and Milwaukee, battling for fifth place, drew closer in the standings as the Apostles took two from the Brewers 11 to 6 and 5 to 4.

BUCKEYES NEARING SCRIMMAGE STAGE

COLUMBUS, Sept. 14.—With an extensive aerial drill and a possible scrimmage on tap, the Ohio State varsity squad today prepared for its hardest practice of the year.

Still using many varied backfield combinations and indicating he will not attempt to select his starting backs until after several intense scrimmages, Coach Francis Schmidt again put the Scarlet Scourge through their two daily drills yesterday with the pass offense again being stressed.

Seemingly intent on fulfilling his promise at the conclusion of the 1934 campaign that "we will really open-up next year," Schmidt has stuck to the passing phase of the game through every drill held this week and the famed Buckeye forward-laterals of last year may seem puny to the air attack Schmidt undoubtedly will show the Western Conference this season.

Baseball fans will be afforded a neat exhibition at Ashville Sunday afternoon when the Central Ohio league nine meets Art Howie's fast colored aggregation at Community park.

The colored stars include many men who have had experience in the fast national negro loop. They have an unusual record covering a long string of victories on a recent barnstorming tour.

These athletes will keep the

'TEEING OFF'

Enthusiasm is high for the biggest day of the year at the Pickaway Country club next Wednesday afternoon and evening.

This is the annual barbecue and it is advised by the club's medicos that you refrain from eating for a couple of days in advance so you can take part in the entire day's eating fest.

The fall golf merchandise raffle will be drawn with 26 prizes on the board. There are a few left.

Will Hamilton pulled a terrible boner the other day. His tonsils backfired or something when he whispered "Let me pay the check." And he said it out loud.

John Eshelman, the pride of Beantown with the aliases, Mayor of Bean Town, Robert T. Jones 4½, whose game has been improving by leaps and bounds (out of bounds), defeated Wild Bill Snodgrass in the Kinnikinnick open, is now considered the ranking golfer in the Antarctic and all points south.

Robert Musser (Eshelman's stooge), who due to a grave illness (I'm busy), was unable recently to take part in tourneys is again ready to go and will soon by in his favorite spot on the course, No. 2 sandtrap.

Max Friedman, once upon a time a real tennis star, has challenged Tom Brunner to a match—Friedman's long suits are his pants and gasps.

SCOTT EAGLESON WINS MEDAL, CASH IN NATIONAL MEET

Scott Eagleson, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. O. Eagleson, S. Pickaway-st, today is rated among the best marksmen in the nation.

He is proudly exhibiting to his friends a medal won in the Camp Perry National marksmanship competition held during the past ten days. He also won a cash prize.

He won eighth place in the major small-bore any sight Western Trophy contest with a score of 495 out of 500. The winner struck only one more target than Eagleson was able to hit.

Eagleson also took down a medal in the 50-meter metallic contest finishing tenth. A cash prize also went with this honor. He hit 395 out of 400 while the winner had 399.

About 500 of the best marksmen in the country were entered in the competition.

ALL WORKS
JOBS TO FACE
U.S. REJECTION

President Orders Ickes to Clear Way for Speedy
Construction Program

WASHINGTON, Sept. 14 Rejection of thousands of PWA projects affecting nearly every community throughout the nation was under way today as President Roosevelt cleared the tracks for his emergency construction program.

With nearly 11,000 applications submitted from the various states, PWA Administrator Harold L. Ickes faced a herculean task of weeding out projects which will meet the president's four requisites.

Gives Ickes Orders

During the works conference at Hyde Park, Mr. Roosevelt instructed Ickes to approve only those PWA projects that can be completed within a year, cost no more than $500 per man employed, permit contracts to be let by December 15 and which can be located in the more populous areas.

The applications already on file call for construction work costing $2,646,000,000, of which the PWA, through its policy of granting 45 per cent, would contribute $1,144,000,000. The applications would supply the remaining funds.

In revising his works program, the president allocated $200,000,000 to Ickes immediately, while an additional $100,000,000 will be turned over to PWA later from funds originally earmarked for housing projects.

The president took this action to carry out the program advocated by Relief Administrator Harry L. Hopkins, who will dispense the bulk of the vast $4,000,000 works fund on projects affording maximum employment in a minimum period.

Move Unemployed

This program calls for launching thousands of quickly-constructed projects on which the administration will rely mainly in its efforts to take more than 3,000,000 persons off the relief rolls. Hopkins will direct this drive so that as many idle as possible may be absorbed during the winter period between December and March.

Rat Islands, 1,000 Miles Off Alaska, May Become Prison for 10,000 Criminals
Suggestion Made by Air Corps Officer for Utilizing This Far-Away,
Little Known American Outpost, Part of the Aleutian Chain
Which Stretches Toward Siberia and Japan

WASHINGTON, Sept. 14 The lonely Rat islands near the western end of the Aleutian chain have been suggested as the possible site of another penal colony.

The suggestion was made by Colonel C. A. Sloane of the army air corps at the invitation of Attorney General Cummings for plans or methods of dealing with the crime problem.

The suggestion incorporated the idea of reducing the prison population of the United States, now almost 120,000, by 10,000.

No Hope Here

Convicts, if placed on the Rat islands, would spend the remainder of their lives there without parole, but also without any realistic hope of escape, pardon or parole.

Probably a coast guard detachment would be assigned to the task of preventing any attempts to escape.

Another suggestion concerning the Rat islands, which were purchased from Russia when the Alaska purchase was made in 1867, emanated from the United States navy as the result of an executive order from the president. The Rat islands were included in the order which comprised a list of strategic territory over which the passage of civil or commercial airplanes was forbidden.

Air Bases?

No evidence is at hand regarding the possible use the navy might make of the Aleutian chain, but it is significant that the executive order comes in an anticipatory way in regard to the Washington naval treaty. It is surmised, however, that the islands would be used for air bases.

This treaty, due to expire on Dec. 31, 1936 forbade further fortifications on the Pacific islands of Great Britain, Japan and the United States.

Near Kamchatka, Siberia, are situated the Near Islands, which paradoxically, are the farthest islands of the Aleutian chain.

Next in line are the Rat islands, site of the proposed prison colony.

Actually in the eastern hemisphere, they are 1,000 miles distant from the mainland of Alaska and approximately 2,000 miles distant from the United States.

Near Asia

In military parlance they would be described as being within easy striking distance of Japanese or Soviet soil.

As may be expected the people living on these islands are, logically enough, known as Aleuts.

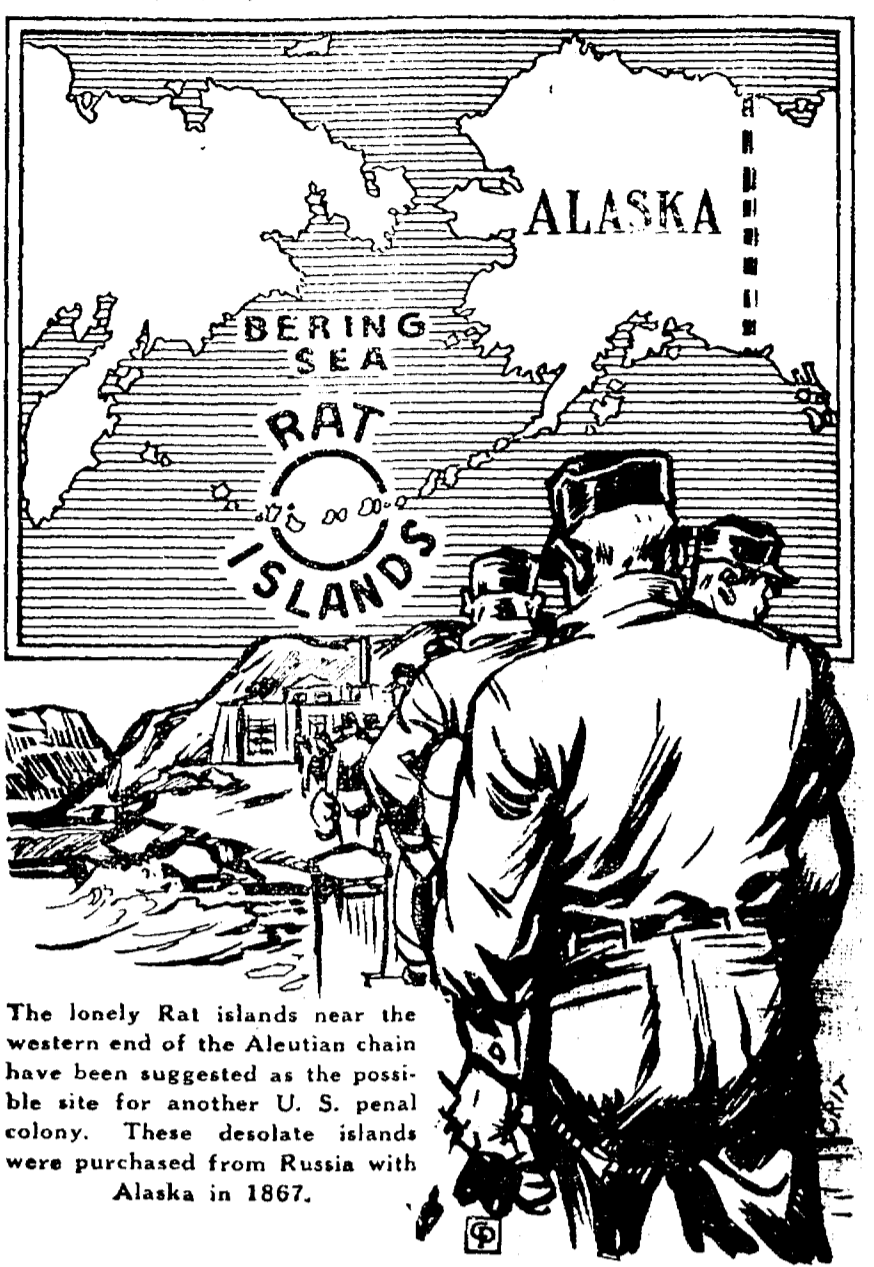

Black-haired and swarthy as the Eskimos, they are ethnically related to the Eskimo of Alaska, but they do not show the same relation in language and customs.

The Greek Orthodox religion is observed and Russian in their original dialect is the chief language.

The islands are not heavily populated and most of the natives are entirely oblivious of the fact that the United States purchased the land nearly 70 years ago.

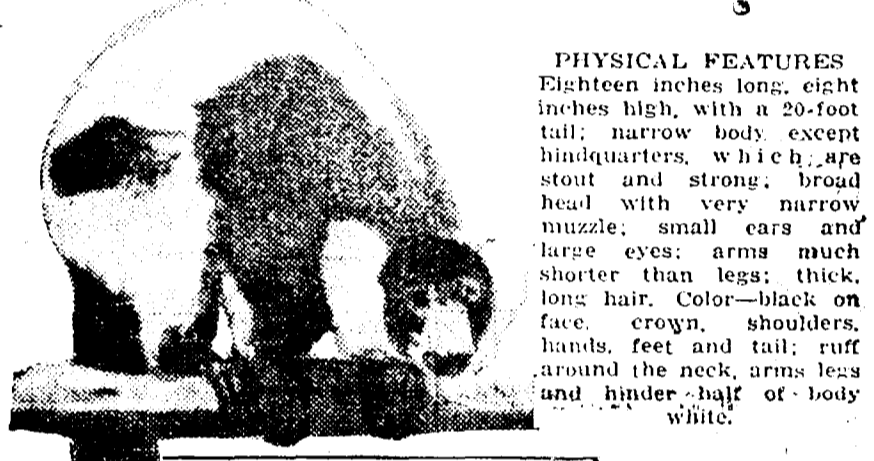

Man's first flight propelled by his own muscles has been accomplished in Germany. Soon we will all begin to sprout wings.

The paragrapher's task has been simplified. Hooley is again hooley.

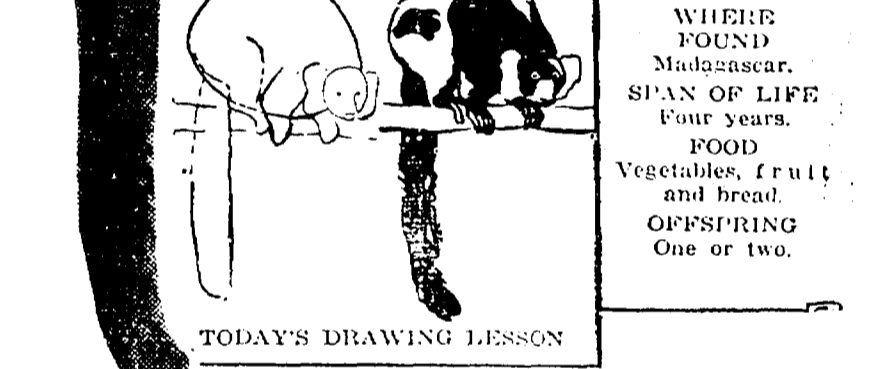

The lonely Rat islands near the western end of the Aleutian chain have been suggested as the possible site for another U. S. penal colony. These desolate islands were purchased from Russia with Alaska in 1867.

Lemurs live in the forests where they delight in pilfering eggs among other things and come down to the ground only to drink. There are many varieties, varying in size from a small rat to a large cat. They are nocturnal animals and in their native land their name means "ghost" because of their round staring eyes in the darkness. The ruffed lemur is the largest and often betrays himself to his enemies by his queer little chattering cry.

Questions and Answers

Is milk fattening?

No one food can be said to be more fattening than any other food in this respect; an equal number of calories of lettuce and of lamb produce exactly the same amount of energy. The term fattening has been applied to all concentrated foods, especially those which have a high fat, sugar or starch content. This term is legitimate only in the sense that small quantities of such foods yield a high calorie return and any excess of them leads to overweight. The percentage composition of milk is 87 percent water and approximately 4 percent each of protein, fat and carbohydrate. Milk may be ranked with fruits and vegetables in water content—foods recommended for reducing diets.

How can yellow tomatoes be canned or pickled? I have a large supply of them and wish to preserve them from spoilage.

Yellow tomatoes may be used in any way similar to the uses of red tomatoes. Tomato preserves, tomato chutney, tomatoes canned with corn, or separately, all are ways to use the vegetable. Tomato and apple chutney is particularly good. The recipe is given here:

Tomato and Apple Chutney

4 lbs. tomatoes
1 lb. chopped apples
3 onions, chopped fine
1 pt. strong vinegar
2 Tbsp. salt
2 C. brown sugar
1 C. seeded raisins
1 tsp. cinnamon
1 tsp. mustard
½ tsp. cayenne

Chop the vegetables, then the apples. Combine all ingredients and cook until the chutney is clear. Seal it in hot clean jars.

Is it safe to use canned meats and vegetables in cold luncheon dishes or salads?

All canned vegetables should be removed from the can or jar and should be boiled 10 to 15 minutes before using them in any cold servings, or in salads. The reason for this is that botulism poisoning which may be present in some canned foods is completely destroyed in boiling temperatures.

Do you have a recipe for Southern Corn Muffins?

Southern Corn Muffins

4 Tbsp. melted butter
2 C. fine cornmeal, preferably white
1 tsp. salt
½ tsp. soda
1 tsp. baking powder
2 C. thick buttermilk or sour milk
2 eggs

Place 1 teaspoon of lard in each muffin tin. Cast iron muffin pans are best. Place the muffin pans in the oven to heat while batter is mixed. Sift the cornmeal, baking powder, soda and salt together. Put the milk and unbeaten eggs in a mixing bowl; beat in the sifted dry ingredients. Pour the melted lard out of the muffin pans; measure 2 tablespoons of it, and add to the batter. Fill hot muffin tins ¾ full and bake at once in a hot (425 degrees) oven until golden brown, or for about 20 minutes. Yield: 12 muffins. Corn muffins are excellent served with "greens," string beans, or boiled ham and cabbage.

"Emotional Insanity"

Margaret Link

When arraigned on a charge of murdering her newly born baby, Miss Margaret Link, 18-year-old school girl of Fairhance, Pa., plans to plead emotional insanity. Weighing less than 90 pounds, the girl gave birth to a baby boy in the woods near her home, covered the child with a burlap bag, according to authorities, and returned to her home to do her usual house work, including the family washing. The infant, discovered by several boys, died the next day in a hospital at Uniontown.

SMALL WORKS JOBS TO FACE U.S. REJECTION

President Orders Ickes to Clear Way for Speedy
Construction Program

WASHINGTON, Sept. 14—Rejection of thousands of PWA projects affecting nearly every community throughout the nation was under way today as President Roosevelt cleared the tracks for his emergency construction program.

With nearly 11,000 applications submitted from the various states, PWA Administrator Harold L. Ickes faced a herculean task of weeding out projects which will meet the president's four requisites.

Gives Ickes Orders

During the works conference at Hyde Park, Mr. Roosevelt instructed Ickes to approve only those PWA projects that can be completed within a year, cost no more than $500 per man employed, permit contracts to be let by December 15 and which can be located in the more populous areas.

The applications already on file call for construction work costing $2,646,000,000, of which the PWA, through its policy of granting 45 per cent, would contribute $1,144,000,000. The applicants would supply the remaining funds.

In revising his works program, the president allocated $200,000,000 to Ickes immediately, while an additional $100,000,000 will be turned over to PWA later from funds originally earmarked for housing projects.

The president took this action to carry out the program advocated by Relief Administrator Harry L. Hopkins, who will dispense the bulk of the vast $4,000,000 work fund on projects affording maximum employment in a minimum period.

Move Unemployed

This program calls for launching thousands of quickly-constructed projects on which the administration will rely mainly in its efforts to take more than 3,000,000 persons off the relief rolls. Hopkins will direct this drive so that as many idle as possible may be absorbed during the winter period between December and March.

Rat Islands, 1,000 Miles Off Alaska, May Become Prison for 10,000 Criminals

Suggestion Made by Air Corps Officer for Utilizing This Far-Away,
Little Known American Outpost, Part of the Aleutian Chain
Which Stretches Toward Siberia and Japan

WASHINGTON, Sept. 14—The lonely Rat islands near the western end of the Aleutian chain have been suggested as the possible site of another penal colony.

The suggestion was made by Colonel C. A. Sloane of the army air corps at the invitation of Attorney General Cummings for plans or methods of dealing with the crime problem.

The suggestion incorporated the idea of reducing the prison population of the United States, now almost 120,000, by 10,000.

No Hope Here

Convicts, if placed on the Rat islands, would spend the remainder of their lives there without guards, but also without any ultimate hope of escape, pardon or parole.

Probably a coast guard detachment would be assigned to the task of preventing any attempts to escape.

Another suggestion concerning the Rat islands, which were purchased from Russia when the Alaska purchase was made in 1867, emanated from the United States navy as the result of an executive order from the president. The Rat islands were included in the order which comprised a list of strategic territory over which the passage of civil or commercial airplanes was forbidden.

Air Bases?

No evidence is at hand regarding the possible use the navy might make of the Aleutian chain, but it is significant that the executive order comes in an anticipatory way in regard to the Washington naval treaty. It is surmised, however, that the islands would be used for air bases.

This treaty, due to expire on Dec. 31, 1936 forbade further fortifications on the Pacific islands of Great Britain, Japan and the United States.

Near Kamchatka, Siberia, are situated the Near islands, which paradoxically, are the farthest islands of the Aleutian chain.

Next in line are the Rat islands, site of the proposed prison colony.

Actually in the eastern hemisphere, they are 1,000 miles distant from the mainland of Alaska and approximately 2,000 miles distant from the United States.

Near Asia

In military parlance they would be described as being within easy striking distance of Japanese or Soviet soil.

As may be expected the people living on these islands are, logically enough, known as Aleuts.

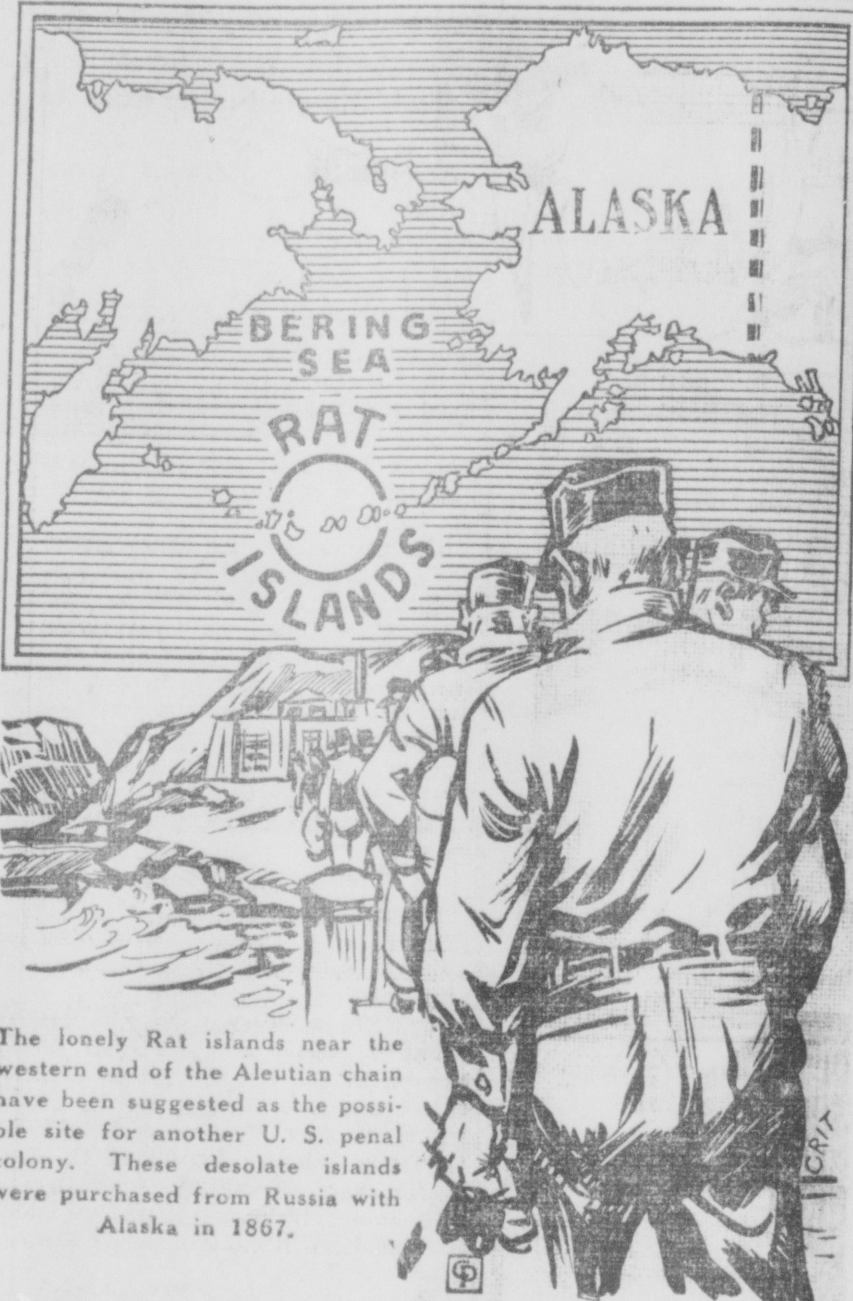

Black-haired and swarthy as the Eskimos, they are ethnically related to the Eskimo of Alaska, but they do not show the same relation in language and customs.

The Greek Orthodox religion is observed and Russian in their original dialect is the chief language.

The islands are not heavily populated and most of the natives are entirely oblivious of the fact that the United States purchased the land nearly 70 years ago.

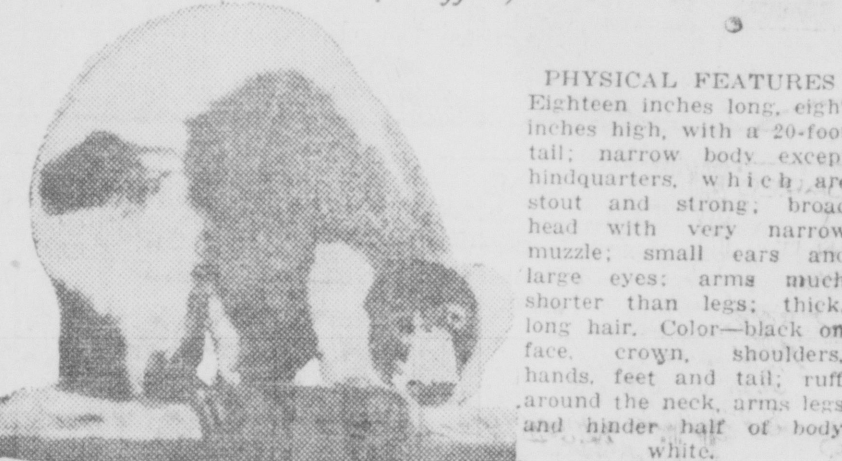

Man's first flight propelled by his own muscles has been accomplished in Germany. Soon we will all begin to sprout wings.

The paragrapher's task has been simplified. Hoey is again hoey.

The lonely Rat islands near the western end of the Aleutian chain have been suggested as the possible site for another U. S. penal colony. These desolate islands were purchased from Russia with Alaska in 1867.

TODAY'S DRAWING LESSON

Lemurs live in the forests where they delight in pilfering eggs among other things and come down to the ground only to drink. There are many varieties, varying in size from a small rat to a large cat. They are nocturnal animals and in their native land their name means "ghost" because of their round staring eyes in the darkness. The ruffed lemur is the largest and often betrays himself to his enemies by his queer little chattering cry.

Questions and Answers

Is milk fattening?

No one food can be said to be more fattening than any other food in this respect; an equal number of calories of lettuce and of lard produce exactly the same amount of energy. The term fattening has been applied to all concentrated foods, especially those which have a high fat, sugar or starch content. This term is legitimate only in the sense that small quantities of such foods yield a high calorie return and any excess of them leads to overweight. The percentage composition of milk is 87 percent water and approximately 4 percent each of protein, fat and carbohydrate. Milk may be ranked with fruits and vegetables in water content—foods recommended for reducing diets.

How can yellow tomatoes be canned or pickled? I have a large supply of them and wish to preserve them from spoilage.

Yellow tomatoes may be used in any way similar to the uses of red tomatoes. Tomato preserves, tomato chutney, tomatoes canned with corn, or separately, all are ways to use the vegetable. Tomato and apple chutney is particularly good. The recipe is given here:

Tomato and Apple Chutney

4 lbs. tomatoes
1 lb. chopped apples
3 onions, chopped fine
1 pt. strong vinegar
2 Tbsp. salt
2 C. brown sugar
1 C. seeded raisins
1 tsp. cinnamon
1 tsp. mustard
1/2 tsp. cayenne

Chop the vegetables, then the apples. Combine all ingredients and cook until the chutney is clear. Seal in hot clean jars.

Is it safe to use canned meats and vegetables in cold luncheon dishes or salads?

All canned vegetables should be removed from the can or jar and should be boiled 10 to 15 minutes before using them in any cold servings, or in salads. The reason for this is that botulism poisoning which may be present in some canned foods is completely destroyed in boiling temperatures.

Do you have a recipe for Southern Corn Muffins?

Southern Corn Muffins

4 Tbsp. melted butter
2 C. fine cornmeal, preferably white
1 tsp. salt
1/2 tsp. soda
1 tsp. baking powder
2 C. thick buttermilk or sour milk
2 eggs

Place 1 teaspoon of lard in each muffin tin. Cast iron muffin pans are best. Place the muffin pans in the oven to heat while batter is mixed. Sift the cornmeal, baking powder, soda and salt together. Put the milk and unbeaten eggs in a mixing bowl; beat in the sifted dry ingredients. Pour the melted lard out of the muffin pans; measure 2 tablespoons of it, and add to the batter. Fill hot muffin tins 3/4 full and bake at once in a hot (425 degrees) oven until golden brown, or for about 20 minutes. Yield: 12 muffins. Corn muffins are excellent served with "greens," string beans, or boiled ham and cabbage.

ROSS ON CANVASS TWICE, BUT WINS

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 14.—After being knocked down twice in the first round, Barney Ross, welterweight champion of the world, came back to win a ten-round decision over Cerefino Garcia, Filipino, here last night before 6,000 fans.
Garcia electrified the audience by catching Ross off balance soon after the opening gong sounded with a hard sock to the jaw, which planted the champion on the canvas. Ross jumped up without taking a count, and a moment later was again felled. The champion again leaped to his feet without taking a count.
Ross was the master in the second round and was not headed thereafter.

COLUMBUS, Sept. 14.—Records of the Industrial Commission today revealed that 278 claims for compensation were made from Pickaway county in 1934.
Of that number, 41 claims were made by employees in public jobs, the balance coming from workers in private industry.
During the year there were six claims for fatal accidents, and the total number of days lost for all the claims in the county amounted to 49,033. The Industrial Commission uses the basis of 6,000 days lost for each fatal accident.
Reports that in some counties claims of public employees outnumbered those of private industry workers were disproved by figures in the Industrial Commission, which showed that more than 96 per cent of all claims filed came from workers or their dependents in private employment.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 14.—Backed by President Roosevelt's demand for low cost and high employment-producing construction projects, WPA administrator Harry L. Hopkins today won his fight to scrap most of Ohio's PWA projects.
PWA administrator Harold I. Ickes who sought to act favorably on the bulk of the $112,000,000 program submitted by Ohio communities was forced to shelve many items which he considered "useful and essential."
Ickes favors more expensive PWA construction which he believes provides more lasting benefit to the community. Hopkins, who prefers the rapidly constructed type which affords maximum employment in the shortest time already has rejected 103 Ohio PWA projects involving $13,000,000.

A DEPARTMENT OF THE CIRCLEVILLE HERALD

VOLUME 9 SEPTEMBER 14, 1935 NUMBER 1

Our Athletic Situation (An Editorial)

In one important respect, affairs at the Circleville high school have taken a turn for the better. We refer to the athletic situation.
The question of the advisability of interscholastic contests is a mooted one. Not all of the argument is on one side.
On the one hand interscholastic competition deals with the nine pupils rather than with the ninety and nine. Its major benefits as best reach only the few. This is the reason for the rise in recent years of intramurals. Nor is there any intention of abandoning them in Circleville now. Furthermore, the medical world is not sure that the strain of interscholastic activity may not produce for the individual more harm than good.
But there is to this picture another side, and it seems to us the stronger one. This side favors not the death of interscholastic activities but the reviving of them.
When we fight a football duel with another city the contest unites us. This is one of the big occasions when we realize that we, all of us, are the Circleville high school.
Nor does the uniting stop here. It includes the whole city. Then as perhaps upon no other occasion does the citizenry thrill at the thought, "These are OUR boys!"
New life is born in all of us. It is a wholesome thing, this.
After years in the dumps, this glorious tang of Fall in the air finds all Circleville looking eagerly forward toward better football days. The boys are out en masse. The eyes of the town are upon them. Already four citizens have promised each to outfit one player. The Stooges, ever on the job, have done their big bit. The Class of 1935 may make a donation. Mr. Reger and Mr. Landrum are splendid props for football hopes. And here's a donation from ourselves: we'll bet that we will win two league games in 1935.
"It's in the air." Let Groveport come on!

—FRANK FISCHER.

student opinion

Do you think that we need an addition to the High school building?
If so, Why? and if not, Why not?

Mary E. Groce, senior: I think we need an addition to the school because it is impossible for any one student to get the proper attention he should have, as the class in which he or she is in, is too full.

Faye Elliot, junior: I, as a student of C. H. S. think we need an addition to our school because of the eagerness of pupils to get an education.

How can they receive it with as large a student body as we have under present crowded conditions?

Junior Martin, sophomore: I think we need an addition to the High School because it would add to the beauty of it and makes up the space needed for the increasing number of school children.

The proposed addition would also provide adequate space for social activities.

Frank Beck, freshman: I think we need a new addition to Circleville high school. It would not be so crowded. We should be able to do more things and have smaller classes.

RUSSIA IMPRESSES MISS RYAN ON TRIP

Among the impressive things she saw on her European trip this summer were some of the conditions in Russia, Miss Ryan reports.
She says that the soldiers were well-dressed but that the majority of the people were without shoes or sufficient clothing. "The people were continually milling about the streets," Miss Ryan says. This, she explains, is probably due to the fact that each individual is only allowed 15 square feet of floor space for living quarters.
Our commercial teacher was impressed by the almost complete absence of shop windows. No window shopping there!
Miss Ryan says that after seeing conditions in Russia she is content to live in America.

Bowen Relates Experiences In School -- of whales

The thrilling experience of riding through a school of whales in the Atlantic ocean came to Mr. Bowen on a seven weeks' vacation trip this summer.

He has been kept busy this week telling details of the harrowing adventure to his fellow teachers and students.

Several weeks after school closed in June, Mr. Bowen boarded a freighter at New York and sailed down the Atlantic coast. He relates that on one moonlight evening in July, when a freighter was not far from the Panama Canal, he was startled to hear a cry: "All hands on deck... we're on a reef..."

The captain was shouting commands back and forth, people were rushing around madly and for once in his life, Mr. Bowen admits he was a little frightened.

Confusion changed to calm a few minutes later when the captain yelled: "Full speed ahead!"
When the boat started on its course again, Mr. Bowen looked up at the bridge and saw the captain chuckling heartily. "What's the big idea?" he shouted to the captain.

Just then a fellow passenger came along and poking him in the ribs, said cheerfully: "We didn't run into a reef, we just went through a school of whales!"

Band Plans Pumpkin Show Appearances

The high school band is preparing for its appearances at the Pumpkin Show after a summer of concerts and other programs.
Circleville was treated to eight weekly band concerts during the summer by Mr. Zaenglein's musicians. All of them were received with much enthusiasm and satisfaction by the citizenry of the town.

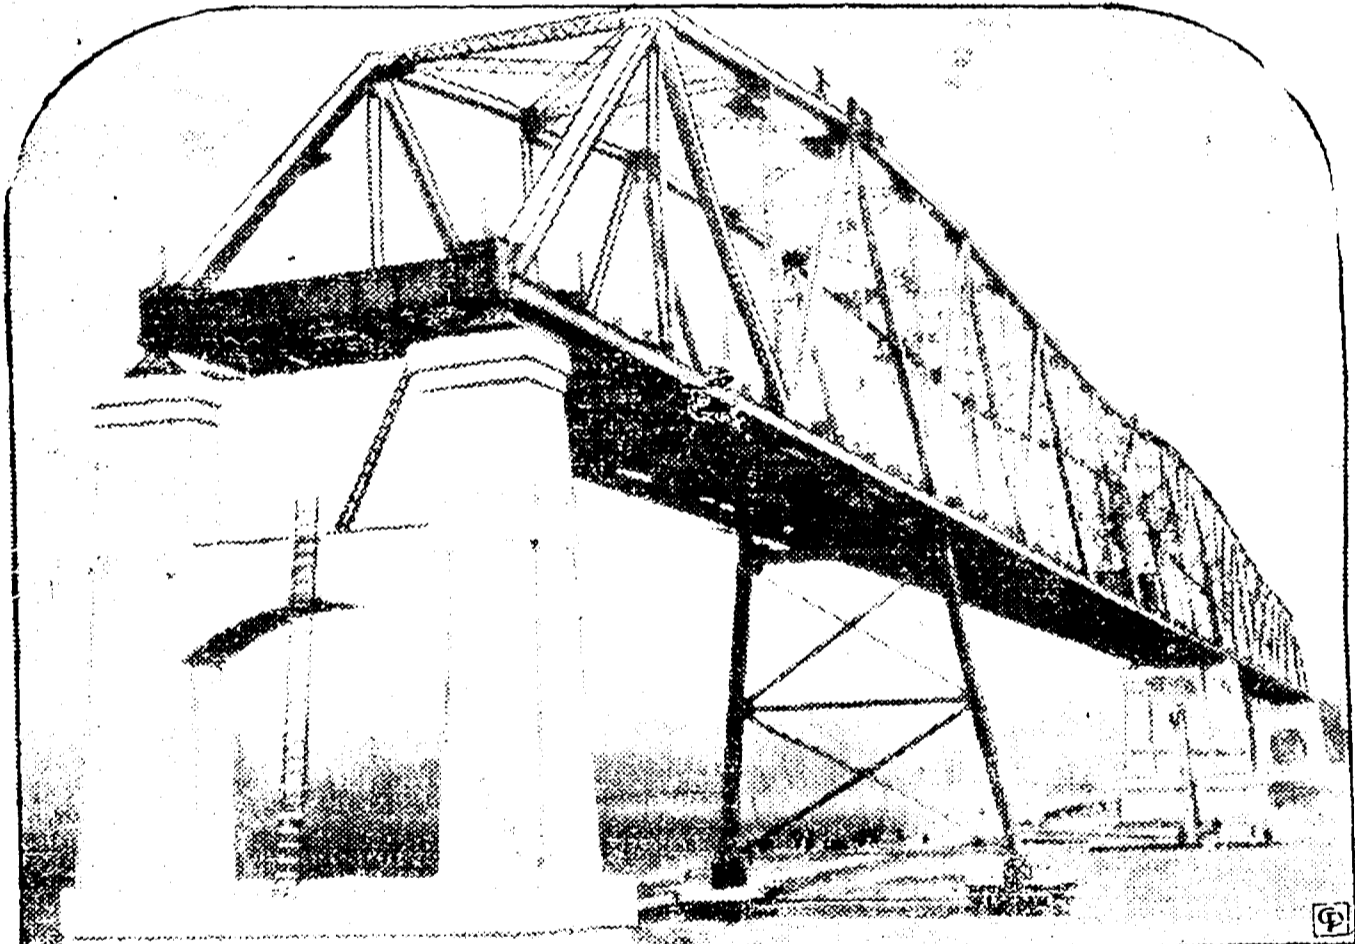

On Wednesday night the band accompanied a group of citizens to New Holland to help that village celebrate its centennial. New Holland officials were high in their praises of the band's work.

EIGHT POSTGRADS RETURN FOR WORK

Many old faces are being seen at the high school this year with ten post-graduates furthering their education.
This is the largest number of post-grads here in recent years. Last year there were only four enrolled and in previous years only two or three students returned after graduation.

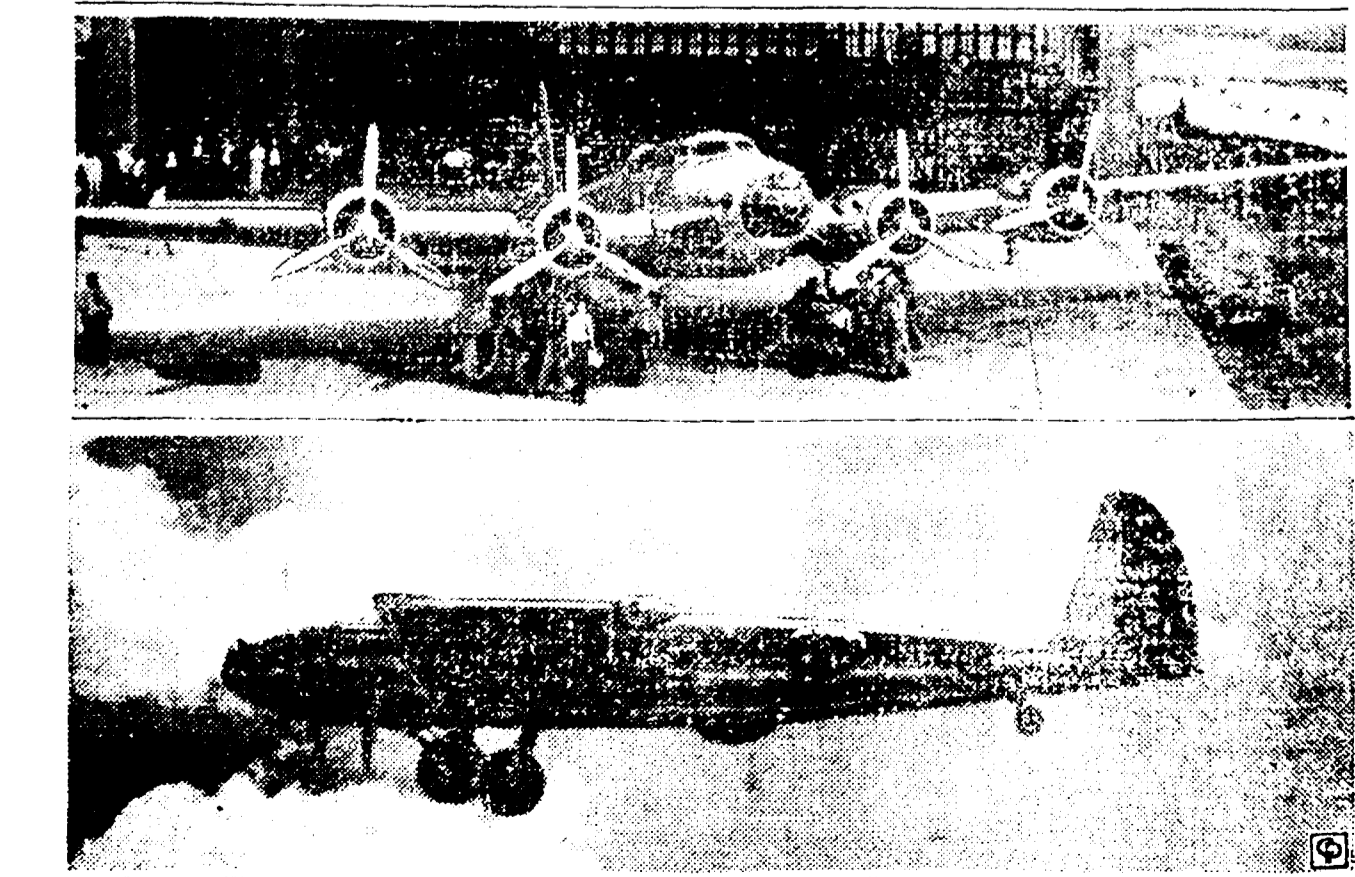

Last year's seniors who are back again include: Martha McGrady, Doris Moffitt, George Rother, Bob Watts and Rod Watts. Lucile Goodman, Mary Kellstadt, Sally May, Maxine Niles and Mary Wolfe, grads of other years, are also registered.

BUILD BRIDGE, THEN MOVE RIVER TO FLOW BELOW

One of the most unusual engineering feats ever accomplished was completion at Omaha, Neb., where the bridge span, shown above, was deliberately erected over dry land, stretching from Nebraska to Iowa. With the bridge completed, the engineers began their tricky work, moving the Missouri from its normal channel into a new channel that would carry the water under the new bridge. Engineers believe the new channel will be more permanent for the wandering Missouri river.

AMERICA'S LARGEST LAND PLANE LONG RANGE BOMBER

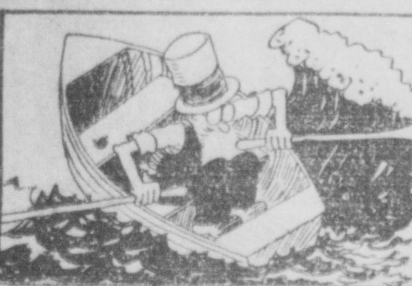

With a wing span of nearly 100 feet and a length of 70 feet, this giant four-engine plane is hailed as the fastest and longest range bomber ever built. It is all metal with retractable landing gear, air brakes, automatic pilot, two-way radio telephone and contains a number of new armament installations. Built by the Boeing company it made its first public appearance in Seattle before being submitted to the U. S. army air corps for severe test flights in open competition with other types at Wright field, Dayton, O. The plane is shown in flight above.

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 14.—After being knocked down twice in the first round, Barney Ross, welterweight champion of the world, came back to win a ten-round decision over Cerefino Garcia, Filipino, here last night before 6,000 fans.

Garcia electrified the audience by catching Ross off balance soon after the opening gong sounded with a hard sock to the jaw, which planted the champion on the canvas. Ross jumped up without taking a count, and a moment later was again felled. The champion again leaped to his feet without taking a count.

Ross was the master in the second round and was not headed thereafter.

Our Athletic Situation (An Editorial)

In one important respect, affairs at the Circleville high school have taken a turn for the better. We refer to the athletic situation.

The question of the advisability of interscholastic contests is a mooted one. Not all of the argument is on one side.

On the one hand interscholastic competition deals with the nine pupils rather than with the ninety and nine. Its major benefits as best reach only the few. This is the reason for the rise in recent years of intramurals. Nor is there any intention of abandoning them in Circleville now. Furthermore, the medical world is not sure that the strain of interscholastic activity may not produce for the individual more harm than good.

But there is to this picture another side, and it seems to us the stronger one. This side favors not the death of interscholastic activities but the reviving of them.

When we fight a football duel with another city the contest unites us. This is one of the big occasions when we realize that we, all of us, are the Circleville high school.

Nor does the uniting stop here. It includes the whole city. Then as perhaps upon no other occasion does the citizenry thrill at the thought, "These are OUR boys!"

New life is born in all of us. It is a wholesome thing, this.

After years in the dumps, this glorious tang of Fall in the air finds all Circleville looking eagerly forward toward better football days. The boys are on en masse. The eyes of the town are upon them. Already four citizens have promised each to outfit one player. The Stooges, ever on the job, have done their big bit. The Class of 1935 may make a donation. Mr. Reger and Mr. Landrum are splendid props for football hopes. And here's a donation from ourselves: we'll bet that we will win two league games in 1935.

"It's in the air." Let Groveport come on!

—FRANK FISCHER.

student opinion

Do you think that we need an addition to the High school building?

If so, Why? and if not, Why not?

Mary E. Groce, senior: I think we need an addition to the school because it is impossible for any one student to get the proper attention he should have, as the class in which he or she is in, is too full.

Faye Elliot, junior: I, as a student of C. H. S. think we need an addition to our school because of the eagerness of pupils to get an education.

How can they receive it with as large a student body as we have under present crowded conditions?

Junior Martin, sophomore: I think we need an addition to the High School because it would add to the beauty of it and makes up the space needed for the increasing number of school children.

The proposed addition would also provide adequate space for social activities.

Frank Beck, freshman: I think we need a new addition to Circleville high school. It would not be so crowded. We should be able to do more things and have smaller classes.

RUSSIA IMPRESSES MISS RYAN ON TRIP

Among the impressive things she saw on her European trip this summer were some of the conditions in Russia, Miss Ryan reports.

She says that the soldiers were well-dressed but that the majority of the people were without shoes or sufficient clothing. "The people were continually milling about the streets," Miss Ryan says. This, she explains, is probably due to the fact that each individual is only allowed 15 square feet of floor space for living quarters.

Our commercial teacher was impressed by the almost complete absence of shop windows. No window shopping there!

Miss Ryan says that after seeing conditions in Russia she is content to live in America.

The total enrollment is again limited to 20 boys with berths yet open to five.

Among faculty members who attended school at Ohio State university during the summer were Supt. Fischer, Principal Reger and Mr. Jewett.

COACH HAS MANY OUT FOR FOOTBALL

Landrum to Use Ohio State Style of Attack Frequently

By George Rader

More than 50 boys, the largest group of candidates for football in several years, has reported to Coach Jack Landrum.

Practice has been going on steadily since Monday and much progress is being shown by many of the boys, the coach reports.

The fans of C. H. S. are expecting a new brand of football from the Tigers this year and it certainly looks as though they are going to get it. Those who have observed one of Coach Landrum's practices can testify to that.

The Ohio State style of attack will be used frequently this year, according to the coach, most of the plays being run from a modified punt-formation, using the balanced line.

The open field attack will be emphasized whenever possible. Coach Landrum also believes there are good prospects for a skillful passing aggregation but this will not be tested until later after squad members have become well accustomed to handling the ball.

After the Groveport game, the Frosh membership on the team will become an independent unit, having its own practices, plays and formations.

It looks to the vitally interested students that C. H. S. is indeed fortunate in having a mentor of Coach Landrum's calibre and that Circleville will no longer be viewed as a "pushover" for other teams.

NOVEL ASSEMBLY GREET'S STUDENTS

New Teachers Introduced on Flower-Decked Stage; Haecker Pleases

An innovation in the routine of Circleville high school's opening day was presented in the form of an entertaining assembly program Monday morning. It was accepted enthusiastically by the student body.

The major change of the morning compared with other years was the fact that gaiety and cheerfulness in the form of flowers and music predominated.

Instead of the teachers being presented from their assembly seats as has been done in the past, Supt. Fischer introduced them from the stage. The teachers, Miss Priest, Mr. Jewett and Mr. Landrum, and the new principal, Mr. Reger, were given an opportunity to speak to the student body.

Preceding his announcement concerning the routine to be followed during the day, Mr. Reger expressed a hope that the students would be 100 percent in their support of school affairs during the year.

Hilaire Haecker, a senior, furnished the music for the program with the piano-accompaniment and piano and thoroughly satisfied.

The main address of the morning was given by Supt. Fischer, who sounded a novel idea for the school year. "Why all music and flowers on the last day of school?" he challenged. "Isn't the beginning of school as joyous an occasion as the ending?"

In answering the question, "What Are We Here For?", Mr. Fischer said: "We are here not primarily for work, but chiefly to learn how to associate with our fellow man and above all, to be happy."

Many baskets of flowers decked the stage to brighten the program.

Bowen Relates Experiences In School --of whales

The thrilling experience of riding through a school of whales in the Atlantic ocean came to Mr. Bowen on a seven weeks' vacation trip this summer.

He has been kept busy this week telling details of the harrowing adventure to his fellow teachers and students.

Several weeks after school closed in June, Mr. Bowen boarded a freighter at New York and sailed down the Atlantic coast. He relates that on one moonlight evening in July, when a freighter was not far from the Panama Canal, he was startled to hear a cry: "All hands on deck... we're on a reef..."

The captain was shouting commands back and forth, people were rushing around madly and for once in his life, Mr. Bowen admits he was a little frightened.

Confusion changed to calm a few minutes later when the captain yelled: "Full speed ahead!"

When the boat started on its course again, Mr. Bowen looked up at the bridge and saw the captain chuckling heartily. "What's the big idea?" he shouted to the captain.

Just then a fellow passenger came along and poking him in the ribs, said cheerfully: "We didn't run into a reef, we just went through a school of whales."

Band Plans Pumpkin Show Appearances

The high school band is preparing for its appearances at the Pumpkin Show after a summer of concerts and other programs.

Circleville was treated to eight weekly band concerts during the summer by Mr. Zaenglein's musicians. All of them were received with much enthusiasm and satisfaction by the citizenry of the town.

On Wednesday night the band accompanied a group of citizens to New Holland to help that village celebrate its centennial. New Holland officials were
